HISTORICAL NOTES After World War I a memorial hall was erected on the site of the present hall. It was destroyed by fire on the 8th November 1928 and a new hall rebuilt immediately on the same site. This hall has been the town's principal meeting place ever since.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE Historically the site has been used for the one public purpose for nearly eighty years, giving it local significance. The present hall is similarly significant for continuing to provide a centre for community activities for a period of seventy years until the present. Aesthetically the building is of local significance as the only public building of its style in Denman. Socially it is also of local significance for having provided the local venue for a vast range of public celebrations and events during its lifetime. Scientifically the building has local significance for its potential to reveal information which could contribute to an understanding of public social life in Denman over the past seventy or more years. The hall is rare locally, representative of type at the regional level.
